In April, Eric suffered a stroke caused by an undiagnosed hole in the heart (PFO), which left the right side of the body temporarily paralyzed. During recovery, doctors discovered a mass in the small intestine, later confirmed to be cancer.

Due to the stroke and the need for blood thinners, surgery was not an option. In May, additional scans revealed spots on the liver. Chemotherapy began in June but was ultimately ineffective. In July, Eric entered hospice care.

Join us in supporting Eric and his family during this difficult time.
